

Stakeholders and stroke related research Application form

All requests for the Stroke Foundation to provide access to stakeholders for stroke related research projects must be made on the appropriate application form. Requests for participants in the execution of a study must be accompanied by a copy of ethics approval for the study and participant information sheet. Only applications for assistance with study design can be considered prior to ethics approval. Although the Stroke Foundation can endeavour to provide access to stakeholders who may be interested in taking part in research projects, it cannot guarantee securing participants.
